

Encore Event: Student-cum-Faculty National Seminar
Topic: Re-telling Familiar Stories: Revisiting Adaptation Studies
Date: 7 February 2020

The Department of English and Encore, the English Literary Society, organized a Student-cum-Faculty National Seminar on 7th February engaging with Adaptation Studies. The seminar was co-convened by Dr. Abhishek Sharma and Dr. Bhagwant Kour. The chief guest address for the event was delivered by Professor K. M. Pandey of Banaras Hindu University, which thereon initiated a series of presentations on multiple dynamics of adaptation studies. The papers presented focussed on adaptive trends in literary texts, adaptation in different media, fidelity theory, among other relevant discourses. The student papers were also much appreciated for their rigour by the present audience. Along with a well-organized schedule for presentations, the participants also enjoyed the refreshments provided during the event. The event was an enriching experience both for the paper presenters and the esteemed audience. The seminar was concluded with a report reading session by students and a vote of thanks by Dr. Abhishek Sharma.
