

RESULT ANALYSIS : PROGRAMME NAME : B.A. (HONS.) POLITICAL SCIENCE FOR THE YEAR 2022

The academic performance of students enrolled in the B.A. (Hons.) Political Science programme for the year 2022 reflects a satisfactory and balanced outcome overall. A significant proportion of students secured First Division marks, with more than half of the cohort falling within this category, indicating a strong level of academic achievement among the students.

The results of the second and third year students were particularly noteworthy, as the number of students obtaining First Division was considerably high. Only a very small proportion of students were unable to secure positions within the higher divisions, which demonstrates a commendable level of academic consistency across these batches.

Furthermore, the number of students securing Third Division across all three years remained minimal. This trend suggests that the majority of students were able to maintain an adequate level of academic performance throughout the programme.

Overall, when the results of all three years are considered collectively, the pass percentage for the year 2022 appears to be quite satisfactory, reflecting a positive academic outcome for the department.
