Introduction to the Speaker by	NA

Activities

The workshop began with an introductory discussion on prehistoric stone tools and their technological development. The guest speaker explained the different types of Lower Palaeolithic tools through a presentation. Students were introduced to tools such as choppers, chopping tools, handaxes, and cleavers. The speaker also discussed their distinctive features, uses, and technological significance, helping students understand the development of early stone-tool technology.

Main Ideas

1. Understanding Prehistoric Technology – Introduction to the development and use of stone tools in prehistoric times.
2. Knowledge of Prehistoric Tools – Familiarisation with tools such as choppers, chopping tools, handaxes, and cleavers.
3. Tool-Making Techniques – Understanding the techniques, methods, and technological features involved in making stone tools.
4. Visual and Practical Learning – Learning through presentations and observation of actual stone tools.

5. Importance of Stone Tools – Understanding stone tools as important evidence of the technological development and activities of early human communities.
