On the occasion of the International Day of Climate Action, EnviSage, The Environmental Society of Sri Guru Nanak Dev Khalsa College organized a Panel Discussion Event to discuss the Policies concerning climate change in India. The inaugural meeting was held over the online video calling application, Google Meet – with all smiles and enthusiasm beaming from behind the screens – and witnessed participation from both faculty and students.

Following were the four panelists who joined us for the discussion:

1. Amrita Dhillon: Founder Editor 'The Kootneeti'
2. Anshi Srivastav: Climate Change Specialist
3. Kumar Niketan: Co-Founder CLAP
4. Garvit Nagpal: Student Environmentalist, Ramanujan College, Delhi University

Panel was moderated by our society member, Kasturi Iyer. Discussion commenced with general talk and greetings. The moderator put across 5 important questions related to Climate change policy in India to the panelists. Each panelist expressed their own strategies, shared their views and explained where we need to improve or change the policies, in particular with respect to the time frame provided for achieving them. They also discussed various practical steps that can be taken both by the Government and the citizens in order to ensure that the climate policies are well framed and properly implemented. All four concluded that instead of framing new policies, we just need to properly adopt and implement the existing policies in a gradual way which would in due course of time give us the expected results. Following the discussion, the panel took up few questions from the audience also.

Akshita Tiwari, General Secretary of EnviSage society delivered the vote of thanks to conclude the event.
