Main Ideas

Civil Society organised Round Table Discussion on farm laws on 16th October 2021 at 11am on google meet. Students of political science honours and staff were part of the event. Dr. Indrajeet Singh had started the event with an introductory and welcoming speech.

Shivani, the President of Civil Society(BA(Hons) Psc, 3rd Year)moderated the event and ensured every student get equal opportunity to speak. It was ensured that students could freely put forward their opinions sticking to the logical and multi-dimensions of the issue without indulging in any irrelevant political spat.

The Central Theme of the Seminar was to familiarize the students with the idea of the 'Farm Bills', what the bill was all about and what were the various meanings which are generally associated with the same. Each student briefed the provisions of these 3 bills so as to obtain a clear and detailed idea of what are the benefits, harms, effects, and legal technicalities. Although the recent amendments pertaining to the farm laws are apparently aimed at benefiting the farmers by creating a system for direct transactions between the cultivators and the buyers, the downsides should also not be ignored. India is highly dependent on agriculture and any disruption in this sector would have a major toll in the already downtrodden economy of the country. So in light of this, the discussion continued.

In the discussion on farm bills, students discussed the both sides i.e. pros and cons of farm bills proposed by the parliament. Students put forward their opinions on the bills and tried to reflect the benefits it could bring to the farmers or the loss it could cause. Discussion was made healthy and fruitful by covering the issue comprehensively and with wider approach. Professors also shared their views on farm bills and tried to give foresightedness over the topic.

The bills had been a bone of contention between the agitating farmers and the government and the discussion covered every aspect of the topic by analyzing its pros and cons. The discussion included students of Political Science of all the years. Every student shared its views and the discussion was really exhilarating. The event ended successfully with every individual contributing something to the cause of the event. The Society is always looking forward to such events with such enlightened insights.

Vote of thanks
