Organized by: Asankh Mathematics Society

Date: 8th November 2019

Number of participants: 45

Report of the event:

With an aim to make students realize that mathematics could indeed be fun and not as ‘intimidating and uncool’ , ASANKH – the Mathematics society of SGND Khalsa college organised Math-o-charades aka mathematical dumb charades.

In Mathematical Dumb Charades the words to be acted out and guessed are mathematical in the sense that it can be a Theorem, a Lemma, a Conjecture, a Mathematical object, a Mathematical Space, a Mathematician’s name and so on.

This contest focused on teaching mathematics in a play-way method for the students.

This was a great opportunity to unleash one’s creative side.

With this event drew to a close with a smile on every face and memories worth cherishing.
