11th January 2020
Brief Report

Photobug, the photography society conducted a photowalk to Yamuna Ghat, near Nigambodh Ghat in Old Delhi area on 11th January 2020. Nestled away from the hustle and bustle of the city, Yamuna Ghat is a very peaceful place alongside the river Yamuna and a photographer's delight especially during November-February, where the area is full of migratory seagulls.

The members gathered at Yamuna ghat by 7:00 am in the morning as it is the best time for capturing the beauty of the river and the seagulls. The members got the opportunity to capture some early golden hour shots on this scenic place on a chilly January morning. The members experienced multiple situations in which they learnt to use high-shutter speeds and long exposure and used water as a reflection to bring out the creativity in their shots. The experience at Yamuna Ghat was not only a knowledgeable one, but it also was a chance for the team to bond together, learn from each other in a productive space and spend convivial moments together.
