

Event : Round Table Discussion on "Farm Bills"

Organized by : Civil Society of the Department of Political Science

Date: October 6, 2021

Participants :60

The Civil Society organized a round table discussion on "Farm Bills" on 6th October,2021 for the students of political science. The Central Theme of the Seminar was to familiarize the students with the idea of the 'Farm Bills', what the bill was all about and what were the various meanings which are generally associated with the same. Each student briefed the provisions of these 3 bills so as to obtain a clear and detailed idea of what are the benefits, harms, effects, and legal technicalities. Although the recent amendments pertaining to the farm laws are apparently aimed at benefiting the farmers by creating a system for direct transactions between the cultivators and the buyers, the downsides should also not be ignored. India is highly dependent on agriculture and any disruption in this sector would have a major toll in the already downtrodden economy of the country. So in light of this, the discussion continued.

The bills had been a bone of contention between the agitating farmers and the government and the discussion covered every aspect of the topic by analyzing its pros and cons. The discussion included students of Political Science of all the years. Every student shared its views and the discussion was really exhilarating. The event ended successfully with every individual contributing something to the cause of the event. The Society is always looking forward to such events with enlightened insights.
