The Musoc society: music society of Sri Guru Nanak Dev Khalsa College conducted an online event tarang on February 18, 2021. The event was an inter genre solo singing competition. The nature of the competition was intra college. Since, the event was conducted online, so the entire procedure of taking permission letters, posters, collection of audition files to the circulation of announcement of competition was done through social media and other online sources, thereby, the conduct of entire process of the event was completed through online platform. In the event, students from the various courses of the college itself participated. All the registered participants on the basis of their online audition clips were shortlisted for the event. The total number of participants were seven. Since the nature of event was inter genre students presented their musical talent by singing songs of various languages and cultures. The participants were asked to keep their audio and video on during the performance. The participants were allowed to play the karaoke track. All the participants were given in total five minutes for their performance. On the basis of their musical skills and performance, all the participants were marked by three teachers of the college itself as a judge. On that basis only, winners were ranked as first, second, and third, and were awarded with cash prizes which were online transacted in their accounts. While the rest of the participants were motivated and congratulated for their performance and were provided with participation certificate. Apart from this, participants were provided with adequate feedback on their respective performances. As the intent of such activities is to keep their learning, practice, passion, and participation of their musical activities alive and continued.
