MAIN IDEA-

Civil society, of Department of Political Science organized a webinar on 'Understanding Social Exclusion: Theories and Praxis' on February, 15TH 2022. The event got a kick start by welcoming speech given by President of Civil society, Ms. Shivani Rai (BA (hons) Psc 3rd year)

The event was later proceeded by Dr. Gopinath Pillai who gave us an eye opening welcoming speech for our honourable guest. The event was aggrandized by the presence of a notable Professor of Jawahar Lal Nehru University, Dr. Yagati Chinna Rao. The esteemed speaker delighted the audience by sharing valuable information on the topic, Understanding Social Exclusion: Theories and Praxis. Considering it to be a most debated concern for today's youth, he started by giving a brief explanation on a major topic, "Social exclusion" and told that it is a contested term with dispute over the agency responsible: globalisation, the nation state and its institutions, or excluded individuals themselves. Understanding it involves interactions between influences and outcomes at different levels - individual, family, community, national and global.

The speaker told us the concept of social exclusion which provides a useful focus on the multidimensional, dynamic and multilevel nature of deprivation. The rhetoric of social exclusion emphasises agency and process but measurable outcomes seem similar to those used for poverty and deprivation. However, while existing definitions of disadvantage may be sufficiently broad to encompass a range of dimensions. On taking a longitudinal view and when we look beyond low income categories, most research has not reflected all these elements.

The speaker also taught us that there have been two approaches to operationalising the concept of social exclusion. One concentrates on specific problems taken to be examples of social exclusion and the other characterises social exclusion as lack of participation in key aspects of society.

And the measures of social exclusion do depart from their predecessors by seeking to identify those people whose non-participation in society arises not just from lack of resources but through broader factors. These factors include discrimination, ill health, geographic location and cultural identification. After the in-depth deliberation, the event moved towards questions and answer session, where audience put forward their curious questions which due to the speaker's empathetic nature was very successful. The event ended with the vote of thanks. The way in which the speaker covered every dimension of the topic was awe-inspiring and made this event a resonating success.
