Main Ideas 1. Anika welcomed Prof. Krishna Menon, followed by a traditional pot ceremony where department teachers honored the speaker. 2. Prof. Menon's lecture, titled "Celebrating International Working Women's Day in Contemporary Times - History, Relevance, and Challenges," explored the origins and significance of the day.

3. She traced its origins to March 8, 1857, when New York textile workers protested against poor working conditions and low wages, marking the beginning of the women's rights movement.

4. She introduced the concept of "Bread and Roses"- bread symbolizing fair wages and roses representing dignity - highlighting its role in shaping the movement.

5. Over time, these struggles gained momentum, leading to the United Nations officially recognizing International Women's Day.

6. In the interactive Q&A session, students posed insightful questions on gender-based challenges and ways to address them.
