

AHAAR

Project Sanrakshan aims at developing an environment where both humans and our four-legged furry friends can coexist with harmony and love. Project Sanrakshan enlightened the importance of the adoption of dogs as it will change the lives of these homeless creatures and made us aware of the legal rights and dues of stray dogs. The project infused in us a new will and determination to keep on working for the sake of these innocent beings.

The aim is to be a ray of hope to the traditional tailors waiting for the opportunities to earn their living. We are determined to feed as many strays as possible. And the objective to protect these voiceless creatures moves forward ardently with all dedication, compassion and sincerity.

Through project Sanrakshan we have dedicated our ideas and strength to protect the speechless creatures of nature, our Radium collar bands are not only our dignity but an idea of distinctiveness and creativity.

When the whole world was shut because of the pandemic our team Enactus SGNDKC initiated a food drive to help these voiceless beings in tough times. It was organized in different parts of the country regardless of how big or small the city was. Our members covered New Delhi, Rajasthan, Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Haryana, Ayodhya (UP), Bihar, Karnataka. In addition to these, we tried to reach the extreme ends of the country and bring the desired changes in Bihar, Punjab, Rajasthan etc. we took care of around 45 dogs consistently and kept them away from any kind of casualties they can fall prey to. Our society came up with another food drive to feed dogs in Delhi where we are nourishing over 35 dogs with nutritious food of pumpkin and chia seeds which our volunteers researched upon. It helps them to boost their overall growth and immunity.

Our motive was to protect them from human atrocities. Dogs roam and pass busy roads, their life is at stake because most accidents take place at night when the vehicle could not spot them. Lakhs of stray dogs who are born in misery and fear lose their lives in uncertainty. To avoid such mishaps radium collars became handy. Radium collars are also called reflective bands which are made to make them feel the warmth of kindness and humanity. However, these are made with an extra protective layer that enables the commuter vehicle to spot the dog that is vulnerable to midnight accidents.

The amount of love and affection these furry friends gave us succeeded in our purpose of starting the drive. We will continue to serve these voiceless creatures till the day every one of them finds a proper home where they are loved and welcomed. These drives not only fed the dogs but also invoked in us the purpose and will to help the helpless and be the voice of the voiceless. Furthermore, we are looking forward to covering more and more cities so we would be able to save as many strays as possible.
