Activities	All the freshers gathered in the gallery with their parents, then a prayer (Ardaas) was held before the start of the orientation programme, followed by a welcome speech delivered by the principal sir. The ANC Society provided an introduction about their organization, elaborated on the events they host every year, and shared information about "Freshers farewell", "Mini Surlok" etc. Subsequently, the highlights of Surlok were also presented in front of the freshers. The society organized a presentation for the freshers, in which they explained their events and their perspective roles through a PowerPoint, and also talked about the different cultural societies that fall under their purview. Following that, members of the cultural societies showcased dance, music etc. performances in front of the freshers. At the end, all the freshers attended the orientation session of their respective departments.
Main Ideas	The main idea of conducting an orientation programme is an introduction to campus Resources: We provided information about essential campus facilities such as libraries, computer labs, health services, and recreational areas. We explained how to access and utilize these resources effectively. Academic Guidance: Offer an overview of the academic curriculum, including major requirements, course registration, grading systems, and academic support services like tutoring and counseling. Highlighted the importance of time management and study skills. Social Integration: Organize icebreaker activities and group sessions to help freshers connect with the students. Introduced societies, seminars, fests and other events on campus to encourage participation and foster a sense of belonging. The main aim is to help the newcomers to get adjust to their new environment and provide them with essential information for a successful start.
